ABSTRACT

Intended for use by health care providers and other professionals who work with pregnant women and newborns, this compendium brings together for the first time a comprehensive collection of educational materials on programs produced by government, professional, and voluntary organizations and agencies. Each organization represented in the collection prepared its own listing of materials. Each section includes a brief description of the organization's purpose and goals, followed by annotated listings of printed and audiovisual materials produced or distributed by that organization and instructions for ordering those materials. The collection concerns such topics as parental care; the course of normal pregnancy and delivery; childbirth alternatives; health risks and problems of pregnancy and delivery; infancy (up to 1 year), including child care, normal growth and development, and physical and developmental problems and disabilities; parent education; the workplace and environmental hazards affecting pregnancy; nutrition; the effects of alcohol, drugs, and smoking; breastfeeding; teenage pregnancy; inherited factors and genetic disorders; and sudden infant death syndrome. In addition, a section entitled "Other Sources of Information" lists clearinghouses, programs, organizations, and resources on related topics including child abuse and neglect, safety of infant products and equipment, handicapping conditions, vital statistics, and family planning. Two indexes--a computer-generated subject index and a title index--designed to provide additional access points to the directory information, are included at the end of the document. (MP)

FOREWORD

This compendium describes printed and audiovisual materials on prenatal and infant care intended for use by the public and health professionals. We feel it is unique in bringing together for the first time a comprehensive collection of educational materials on programs produced by government, professional, and voluntary organizations and agencies. These groups all have a significant commitment to maternal and child health, and most are members of the Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies Coalition.

The Coalition, begun in 1981, is an informal association of professional, voluntary, and government organizations with a common interest in prenatal and infant health. Its purpose is to foster public education efforts for pregnant women through collaborative activities and the sharing of information and resources. This collection represents one of the first projects of the Coalition and is aimed at facilitating the dissemination of existing educational materials to pregnant women, their families, and the professionals who work with them. It is hoped that this volume will promote sharing among organizations of information about the wide variety of pregnancy-related printed and audiovisual products and will assist professionals in identifying and ordering appropriate materials for their clients or patients. Since the collection is primarily aimed at enhancing the exchange of information among government and private groups, it does not include materials produced by commercial sources or publishers.

Each organization represented in the collection prepared its own listing of materials. Each section includes a brief description of the organization's purpose and goals, followed by annotated listings of printed and audiovisual materials produced or distributed by that organization. All entries specify how to order the materials. Many of the items are free of charge. The entries are current as of Spring 1982; materials availability is subject to change over time.

The listings include pamphlets for the public, as well as technical materials intended primarily for use by health care providers and other professionals who work with pregnant women and newborns. The nontechnical materials cover items aimed at pregnant women, teenagers, expectant fathers, women planning pregnancy, parents of newborns, and siblings. The technical materials are designed to assist professionals in educating themselves or their client and patient populations. Audiences encompass physicians, nurses, nurse-midwives, and other health professionals; educators; program administrators in various settings; community workers; employers; and others. The professional materials generally emphasize "how-to" approaches, program planning, guides and standards, program descriptions, research reports, bibliographies, clinical guidelines, and similar information. Products in Spanish and other languages are listed, when available.

The collection covers such topics as prenatal care; the course of normal pregnancy and delivery; childbirth alternatives; health risks and problems of pregnancy and delivery; infancy (up to 1 year), including child care, normal growth and development, and physical and developmental problems and disabilities; parent education; the workplace and environmental hazards affecting pregnancy; nutrition; the effects of alcohol, drugs, and smoking; breastfeeding; exercise; teenage pregnancy; inherited factors and genetic disorders; and sudden infant death syndrome. In addition, a section entitled "Other Sources of Information" lists clearinghouses, programs, organizations, and resources on related topics, including child abuse and neglect, safety of infant products and equipment, handicapping conditions, vital statistics, and family planning.

We see this compendium as a "work in progress." As new members join the Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies Coalition, as new materials are produced, and as we find out about other sources of information, we expect to update our directory of materials.

We offer this collection to pregnant women and their partners, to the parents of newborns, and to others who have an interest in promoting the health of mothers and babies. It is our hope that by sharing information we are one step closer to our goal of "Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies."

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

The Healthy Mothers, Healthy Babies Directory is arranged in alphabetical order by the names of the participating organizations. Within each organization, the descriptions are divided into two sections for print and audiovisual materials; titles are listed alphabetically within the sections.

Each title listing includes as much descriptive information as possible: format of the item (such as pamphlet, poster, or slides); physical description; publication date, price, and its availability in any languages other than English. A short paragraph about the content and potential uses for the item is provided when available. Those materials which are considered appropriate only for professional audiences are indicated by an asterisk.

For each organization, general instructions for ordering its materials have been prepared. Any details necessary for ordering a specific item, such as price or order number, have been included under the individual titles.

Following the body of the directory is a section listing other sources of information. This section contains descriptions of organizations that have materials and information on prenatal and infant care. It also includes a list of indexes that provide access to the literature of the field.

Two indexes have been designed to provide additional access points to the directory information. The first is a computer-generated subject index. The subject index was prepared by listing alphabetically all the significant words from all the titles. For example, all the materials containing the word "nutrition" in the title are listed under that heading in the subject index. To ensure locating all the relevant materials on the topic of nutrition, the user may want to also look under related headings such as "food" and "diet." The second index, a title index, lists all the titles from the entire directory alphabetically by the first significant word.

Please note that prices and other availability information are current, as of Spring 1982. To avoid delay in receipt of materials, it is advisable to confirm the information with the issuing organization just prior to placing your order.

AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR PSYCHOPROPHYLAXIS IN OBSTETRICS
(ASPO: LAMAZE CHILDBIRTH/PREPARED PARENTHOOD)

The American Society for Psychoprophylaxis in Obstetrics (ASPO) is a national, nonprofit organization that was founded in 1960 to promote the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth and family-centered maternity care. The Society is involved in preparing parents for the experience of pregnancy and birth and the demands of childrearing. Its 6,500 members include physicians, childbirth educators, other health care professionals, and parents. ASPO sponsors a nationally standardized teacher certification program in the Lamaze method of prepared childbirth. Teachers who complete the comprehensive 2-year program are ASPO Certified Childbirth Educators (ACCE). The program is accredited by the Council for Noncollegiate Continuing Education. ASPO also sponsors continuing education workshops each spring and an annual convention.

THE SALVATION ARMY

Eastern Territory

Social Services Department

The Salvation Army's approach today is based on the belief that young people will make good decisions about their lives if they are given help in understanding themselves, their feelings, their bodies, and their relationships with peers and family. It believes that such help must come from adults who care about them individually, who are interested in them personally, who will be supportive under all circumstances and who will help them build the capacity to take charge of their own lives. This includes knowledge about the resources the community offers and a guarantee of access to these resources. It is the goal of The Salvation Army to help young people take charge of their own lives, based in self-respect; to make available information about their physical and emotional needs; and to help them to acquire skillfulness in using community resources.

TO ORDER:

Send orders to The Salvation Army, Social Services Department, 120 West 14th St., New York, NY 10011. Include $1 for postage and handling for the first five items; for more than five, actual cost will be billed. All materials are photocopied on 8-1/2" x 11" paper.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) is the Federal Government's principal agency for furthering the good health of Americans and providing them with essential human services. Renamed from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in 1980, HHS is responsible for more than 300 programs. The Department's major programs related to maternal and infant health are carried out by the Public Health Service and the Office of Human Development Services. Within the Public Health Service, the Health Services Administration is responsible for maternal and child health programs, and the National Institutes of Health supports research on such problems as the sudden infant death syndrome, mental retardation, birth defects, and developmental disabilities. As part of its responsibilities, the Office of Human Development Services carries out programs for abused and neglected children, supports day-care services, and administers Head Start. The publications listed below are issued by these agencies and other DHHS components having responsibility for some aspect of maternal and infant health. The listing is not all-inclusive; it emphasizes public education materials but also includes selected items of interest to health care providers and other professionals. Items listed have been published in the last 5 years. The section entitled "Other Sources of Information," on page 97, lists clearinghouses and other resources that can provide many more publications and information services on related topics.

TO ORDER:

Single copies of many of the publications may be obtained free of charge from the issuing agency. Include the agency's publication number when ordering directly from a specific agency. If indicated, items may be purchased from the Government Printing Office (GPO). Address orders to:

Superintendent of Documents
Government Printing Office
Washington, DC 20402

When ordering from GPO, include the GPO stock number and enclose a check or money order made payable to the Superintendent of Documents. Discounts may be available for bulk orders of 100 or more copies. Please note that although every effort has been made to list current prices, GPO prices are subject to change without notice.

Indexes

Printed Indexes:

The following indexing and abstracting services are available in most professional and academic health libraries.

Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature, 1956- ;
Glendale Adventist Medical Center Publications Service, Box 871,
Glendale, CA 91209; $48

Appears in five bimonthly issues and a cumulated annual volume. Indexes over 260 journals including those of professional nursing associations. Some popular and news magazines are included. Separate sections index pamphlets, audiovisuals, and book reviews.

Excerpta Medica, 1947- ; Box 211, 1000 AE, Amsterdam, Netherlands

The major abstracting service for journal articles on human medicine and related fields. It is published in separate subject sections, several of which include perinatal medicine: Section 1: Anatomy, Anthropology, Embryology, and Histology (10 issues a year, $153.75); Section 7: Pediatrics and Pediatric Surgery (20 issues a year, $258.50); Section 10: Obstetrics and Gynecology (20 issues a year, $236); and Section 21: Developmental Biology and Teratology (10 issues a year, $142.50). All sections are also available as automated databases (see below).

Index Medicus, 1960- ; Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government
Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402; $195

Issued monthly. Indexes more than 2,500 journals plus monographs and conference proceedings. A separate section gives access to lengthy and review articles. The Abridged Index Medicus (1970- ; $46; available from Superintendent of Documents, as above), found in many public libraries, provides access to 125 English-language clinical journals. Citations from Index Medicus are also available online, on MEDLINE (see below).

International Nursing Index, 1966- ; American Journal of Nursing Co.,
10 Columbus Circle, New York, NY 10019; $40

Appears quarterly and indexes over 200 nursing and non-nursing journals that contain medical articles. There are special sections for nursing books and the publications of organizations and agencies. Its citations are also available on MEDLINE (see below).

Computerized Indexes:

The following automated databases also provide indexes and, in some cases, abstracts for journal articles and other publications. They can be searched through most professional and academic libraries.

AGRICOLA

Produced by the National Agricultural Library (NAL), this database includes citations to journal articles and other documents that have been indexed and abstracted by the Food and Nutrition Information Center (FNIC). Three commercial vendors provide access to AGRICOLA: Bibliographic Retrieval Services, Inc. (BRS); DIALOG Information Services, Inc.; and System Development Corporation (SDC). A Controlled Vocabulary, which is a list of index terms used in AGRICOLA, is available free from FNIC (see p. 72).

CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT

Produced by the National Center for Child Abuse and Neglect (DHHS), this database is available on DIALOG. It includes records on research projects, publications, and service programs.

EXCEPTIONAL CHILD

Contains references to published and unpublished literature on the education of exceptional children (gifted or handicapped). Ages covered are 0 - 21 years. It is available on DIALOG and BRS.

EXCERPTA MEDICA

Includes references from all sections of Excerpta Medica (see above). It is available through DIALOG.

HEALTH PLANNING AND ADMINISTRATION

Contains citations to literature on health planning, organization, and related subjects. This is one of the National Library of Medicine's databases, part of its MEDLARS system. It is available through selected medical libraries around the country and can also be accessed through BRS and DIALOG.

MEDLINE

Also part of the MEDLARS system, MEDLINE indexes biomedical journal articles from both U.S. and foreign journals. It includes selected chapters and articles from monographs as well. This database is available at selected medical libraries and through BRS and DIALOG. Its print counterparts include Index Medicus and International Nursing Index (see above).
